

Delaware High School Students: Read a good book and win a prize!

The Cape Henlopen School Board took Emily Danforth's critically-acclaimed novel The Miseducation of Cameron Post off the summer reading list for 9th grade students, ostensibly for containing a word that rhymes with duck – then, facing controversy, decided to ditch the summer reading list altogether.

What?????

The adults have had their say. Now it's your turn.

If you're a high school student in Delaware, you're invited to:

- Get a free copy of The Miseducation of Cameron Post from Browseabout Books (student ID required)
- Write a 250-500 word essay about what you think board members should know about the book before deciding whether it belongs on a school reading list
- Submit your essay to ncac@ncac.org by September 1st

1st Prize: $250

2nd Prize: $150

3rd Prize: $100

Best prize of all: Winning essays will be published on the NCAC website AND your voice will be heard.

This contest is sponsored by the National Coalition Against Censorship and is co-sponsored by American Booksellers Foundation for Free Expression; American Civil Liberties Union of Delaware; Association of American Publishers; Comic Book Legal Defense Fund; Delaware Library Association; PEN American Center; and Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators, in collaboration with Browseabout Books.

Special thanks to Balzer & Bray, a division of HarperCollins Publishers, for donating copies of The Miseducation of Cameron Post.

For more about the Kids' Right to Read Project, go to <http://ncac.org/project/the-kids-right-to-read-project/>.