Dear Chairmen and Ranking Members,

On behalf of the undersigned organizations concerned with government openness and accountability, we are writing to urge you to not include in the final version of the National Transportation Safety Board Reauthorization (NTSB) Act of 2010 (HR 4714, S 2768) two provisions in Section 3(d) of the Senate-passed version of the bill, S. 2768, that unduly limit the public’s ability to access critical information.

The Senate-passed bill would needlessly expand categories of information that may be withheld under exemption b(3) of the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) for records related to ongoing Board investigations. There is no reason to offer the NTSB greater protection beyond the existing FOIA exemptions that provide protection for ongoing investigations, and represent a proper balancing of interests. Indeed, given the critical safety issues the NTSB investigates, the public’s interest should be paramount. We understand that NTSB has expressed concerns that fulfilling public requests for information takes time and resources. Expanding categories of information withholdable under our oldest public disclosure law is not, however, an appropriate way to handle resource issues, and is not in the spirit of the law. House-passed version of the bill, HR 4714, contains no such expansion.

The Senate-passed language also excessively expands protections from public disclosure for commercial or financial information submitted to the Board. Under FOIA’s existing b(4) protections, all confidential commercial or financial information is exempt. By omitting the word “confidential,” the Senate language denies the public access to any and all commercial or financial information, even if the information is not a trade secret. Section 6 of the House-passed version of the bill makes clear that Congress does not intend to exempt all commercial or financial information from public release.

We urge you to not include the exemption for ongoing investigations and to support the language in Section 6 of HR 4714 narrowing the exemption for commercial and financial information. We welcome an opportunity to discuss this issue with you further.
